“ Elizabeth was my friend between 1980 and 1982.
She was vibrant, always laughing, and wise beyond her years.
During this time, Elizabeth was a dancer.
I once asked her, "What if you don't get into a dance company?"
Her beautiful reply--
"Then I will dance in the streets"

After I moved away in 1982, I thought of Elizabeth daily, especially when I was discouraged. Her beautiful combination of insouciance and determination guided me through many difficult times, even though she was far away.

Elizabeth had a smile that would light up a room, and this world is a lesser place without her.

My sincere condolences,
Laura Blanton (nee Bashaw)
