“ Last time you stayed with us in England, I cooked a Chinese feast. I enjoyed the compliments you gave me, or you may have been teasing me. We always enjoyed your infectious fun. You fitted right into our home and you were so comfortable to be with. Justin, your pain has now gone and your new life is in Paradise, I believe, with our Lord Jesus. Keep the conversation going with Warren and all those that you love and that love you, that have gone before you. Until we all meet again, love Margaret xxx

“ Hey Justin. I have great memories of the positive, kind and fun energy you carried through the halls of St. Rose Junior High. Even though so much time had passed since school, you came up to me a couple years ago at Cactus Club to say hello with the biggest and brightest smile I have ever seen! I will never forget your smile and will forever grateful you made the effort to come say hi, that's the kind of amazing person you were. Wishing you an eternity of peace.

“ Justin you will always be in my heart. Words cannot even express my sadness knowing the last time I seen was the last one forever. I will miss your amazing smile and big hugs. I will miss you forever.
RIP ❤️
