“ A beautiful person and always such a pleasure to work with. I had the privilege to work alongside Murray on many occasions. He was always a true professional and always willing to go the extra mile to help.

He often spoke of his family. He was very proud of his children and was obviously a very devoted husband who loved his wife very much.

When Murray came to my shop for a visit or to help with an issue, I greeted him with a hug. Two men hugging in a heavy duty repair shop usually gets noticed and of course people laughed, but I have the utmost respect for him and felt Murray deserved better than a handshake.

*He is going to be missed by many and I send my love to his family.
